Nuts bra amnesty!

Ladies, please remove your bras. It's for charity!

OVER HERE at Nuts, we're big fans of ladies taking off their bras. But it's rare we can genuinely claim it helps people. Well this week we can, as we're getting behind Oxfam's "Big Bra Hunt" campaign to get ladies to send in old bras, which are then sold in the markets of Dakar, Senegal. So toplessness can help people in Africa. Take that, Comic Relief!

- Ladies, pop your bras into any Oxfam shop! Info at www.oxfam.org.uk/donate/shops/bra-hunt

Highest man in Europe!

Nuts meets the man who scaled The Shard!

THESE SNAPS show daredevil Bradley Garrett, who snuck up almost 80 floors to the top of The Shard in London – the EU's tallest tower. The 31-year-old's ascent was the latest stunt by urban explorer group "London Consolidation Crew."

"I can see my house from here!
It's in Stoke!"

SKY SCRAPING!

The £435m, 1,017ft Shard finally opens in June, with a 5* hotel, chic apartments and a public viewing gallery boasting 40-mile views.

Nuts meets climber Bradley Garrett

This isn't the first time you've been up there...
There are about two dozen of us in the group I explore with, so we've been taking it in turns to go up. I'd say the group has gone up half a dozen times over the past year. On one occasion, a guy who couldn't keep up got pinched.

H i Brad! When did you decide to scale The Shard?

When we saw that it was going to be the tallest building in the EU. We kept an eye on construction, waiting for the point when it became the tallest building. You can only do so much research before you realise you just have to go for it!

How on earth did you get past security?

We found a scaffolding-covered walkway connecting London Bridge station to the base of the building. We went at 2am, waited for the walkway to be clear and pulled ourselves up. After waiting for security to go into their hut, we just went for it!

How did you get to the top without detection?

We accessed the central staircase and climbed up 76 floors in about 45 minutes, which I think is record time! I was completely destroyed by the time I got to the top, but there could be a silent alarm, or cameras, so you can't hang about.

What does it feel like?
Absolutely magical. It's so quiet up there. You can't hear any noise from the city. You look down and all you can see are threads of light. We were able to spend about half an hour up there before it got too cold. It was windy enough for the crane to sway, which means re-shooting a lot of the photos.

Do you know the odds of being caught?

No, and that's part of the excitement. Society is so sanitised – there are few chances to take genuine risks. Urban exploring is free and it's thrilling.

What's your typical urban explorer like?

It's a diverse group – construction workers, doctors, dentists, council workers, IT workers. There's even a pole dancer!

Which building next?

We're heading to Berlin in a couple of weeks, but I can't go into specifics in case people try to thwart us. But, we're on the lookout for a London bunker to turn into a secret hideout.

New Jimmy Carr gags!

Fresh funnies from Jimmy's brand-new tour!

On religion!

"I think God must be a woman. 'Moving in a mysterious way' is right up there with, 'If you don't know what the problem is, I'm not going to tell you.'"

"I couldn't be more suspicious of The Vatican if it was made of gingerbread and the Popemobile played ice-cream van music."

"The only real downside of me being an atheist is that I have nothing to say when people sneeze."

"Stephen Hawking has famously said there's no God. I bet God will try to get some sort of revenge on him for that."

On terrorism!

"I heard someone say on the news, 'At least one person killed in suicide attack.' I thought, 'Well, yeah.'"

"The current terrorist threat level in the UK is 'substantial'. The highest threat level is 'imminent'. I don't know what you're supposed to do in that situation. I suppose, clench."

One-liners!

"Spiders used to give me nightmares, but then I stopped eating them just before bedtime."

"Do closet gay agoraphobics ever come out?"

"I sat down and the waiter said, 'Do you want white or brown toast?' I said, 'All toast is brown, you're thinking of the bread.'"

"I went into a shop called Everything's A Pound and said, 'How much for everything?'"

"I like to shorten The Only Way Is Essex by switching it off halfway through."

"On bonfire night, I hope my neighbours keep their pets locked up, because there's something about fireworks that makes me really horny."

On statistics!

"The number of people having facelifts in Britain has risen by 200 per cent. That raised a few eyebrows."

"One in six schools have banned conkers. Are they nuts?"

"Apparently, ten per cent of all women cry in the shop changing room. I guess they weren't expecting to see me there."

On his girlfriend!

"My girlfriend said, 'What kind of a man fantasises about his friend's wife while actually having sex with his partner?' I said, 'Promise you won't get mad?'"

"My loud snoring upsets my girlfriend so much that she insists on driving."

"My girlfriend said she wants to start seeing other people. I don't see how that will work unless I let her out of the cellar."

On family!

"When I was a kid I didn't want to imagine my parents having sex. So, I got them to film it."

"If my grandmother knew how much I really spent on her funeral, she would be spinning in her ditch."

On relationships!

"It's a great feeling when you get a woman you've been chasing... for miles."

"I love it when a woman says those magic words that means she's up for sex... 'This drink tastes funny.'"

"The most important thing in a relationship is trust. If you're with someone and you don't trust them 100 per cent, how do you know she's not going to tell your wife?"

On football!

"Wayne Rooney wears the number ten shirt, or as he calls it, 'The stick and the circle.'"

"Wayne Rooney recently had a hair transplant. While he was unconscious, they took the opportunity to brush his teeth, clip his nails and escort school children into the room to stroke his hair and watch him breathe."

"During his career, David Beckham has had more hairstyles than his wife has had hot dinners. Four."

"My friend reckons football violence and aggressive behaviour are triggered by primitive tribal rivalries, which are projected onto our opposing teams and expressed through exaggerated displays of loyalty. He's a lying Gooner tw*t so he can suck my fking c*ck."

On health!

"Deafness is starting to get to be a problem for me lately. I never thought I'd hear myself say that."

"When people say they hear voices, isn't that what most people can hear in their head? It's called thought."

"My girlfriend got me a comb to prevent balding. How it works is you look at it, unwrap it and pop it in the bin. It's miraculous."

GAGGING FOR IT

Jimmy's new tour spans more than 150 gigs all over the country, from this month to Sept 2013.

“I don’t like celebrities who are only famous because their parents are famous, like Peaches Geldof and Calum Best... and Jesus.”

“I remember in the playground, ‘My dad is harder than your dad.’ Not really the issue there. The issue is both our dads have erections in a playground.”

“Women say men can’t do two things at once. What about the motorboat?”

“I’m often asked, ‘Can you laugh a woman into bed?’ Yes. The hard bit is three minutes later, when you’re trying to laugh her into a taxi home.”

9 reasons Prometheus will rock!

Don't take our word for it – hear it from the cast and director, no less!

SOMETIMES IT'S an enormous and exciting honour to work for Nuts.

Tuesday last was definitely one of those days, as we found ourselves in the Vue cinema in London, being the first humans to see footage from Alien prequel Prometheus – 15-odd minutes of spoiler-free content cribbed from the first half-hour or so.

Then director Ridley Scott and actors Noomi Rapace, Michael Fassbender and Charlize Theron sat down and told us why it's going to be good! Prometheus is out on 1 June.

4 MICHAEL FASSBENDER PLAYS A FUNNY ROBOT

Michael Fassbender: "There's a great deal of wit – humour was what I wanted to start off with. There's something quite childlike about him. He has two-and-a-half years while everyone else is in cryo-sleep – he's got to keep his imagination going."

WORDS: RORY BUCKERIDGE

5 CHARLIZE THERON PLAYS A BADASS SUIT...

Charlize Theron: "My character's quintessentially 'suity' – detached and cold. When she wakes up from cryo-sleep, she wakes up early, does push-ups and is like, 'Did anybody die?' I love the way she acts like, 'Are they dead?'"

7 IT LOOKS AMAZING!

Ridley Scott: "Everything was planned with five digital designers who design like industrial designers, from the suits to the ship's kitchen."

FIRST VIEW AT THE VUE!

From left: Scott, Rapace, Fassbender and Theron dish the dirt.

1 IT'S ABOUT ALIEN'S 9FT-TALL "SPACE JOCKEYS"

Ridley Scott: "There was this big-boned, 9ft-tall creature sitting in this chair in Alien and I went in to [studio] Fox with four questions – 'Who are they? Why are they there? Why that cargo and where were they going or had they been forced to land?'"

2 IT TIES IN WITH ALIEN (EVENTUALLY)

Ridley Scott: "You kind of get it in the last seven minutes or so. There's a little bit of it right at the end that gives you a connection."

3 SOMETHING REALLY BAD HAPPENS TO NOOMI RAPACE'S CHARACTER

Noomi Rapace: "My mind, soul and body were a mess. I had nightmares for two weeks. I had these weird, fked up images in my head."

Ridley Scott: "There's an equivalent of Alien's chest-burster scene."

6 ...AND SHE HAS ULTERIOR MOTIVES

Charlize Theron: "She's not a scientist, she really is just there to make sure that you think that everything is going to plan. But then she's actually there for a very personal reason, of which I cannot speak."

8 THERE ARE ALIEN "EASTER EGGS" THROUGHOUT

Ridley Scott: "The planet we visit is LV-223, I believe, and the planet in Alien is LV-426."

9 DOING A 3D MOVIE'S EASY!

Ridley Scott: "It's not science, it's not brain surgery. It's actually pretty straightforward. You could have a 45-minute discussion about something hanging around in the foreground and say, 'I hate it, get rid of it!' or, 'I love it, fk off!' It's that simple!"

EXCLUSIVE!

Crysis 3 revealed!

Nuts gets world-exclusive eyes on new alien shooter!

➔ WHAT DO you do with a wrecked future Manhattan filled with random bits of alien? Well, if you're a scientific bod in Crysis, you quarantine it all inside a massive greenhouse. Then stick Crysis 3 in it!

New York is now covered by the Liberty Dome, see? Its streets have turned to swamps and trees are growing out of yellow cab windows.

You're Prophet – special ops mental, clad in your all-powerful alien “nanosuit” – and you've turned hunter, whether stealth-skewering alien Ceph enemies with a futuristic bow and arrow, or sneaking up on soldiers and power-thumping them off the mossy skyscrapers.

Crysis 3's urban jungle won't hit Xbox 360, PS3 and PC till next year. The long wait starts now!

WORDS: WILL PORTER

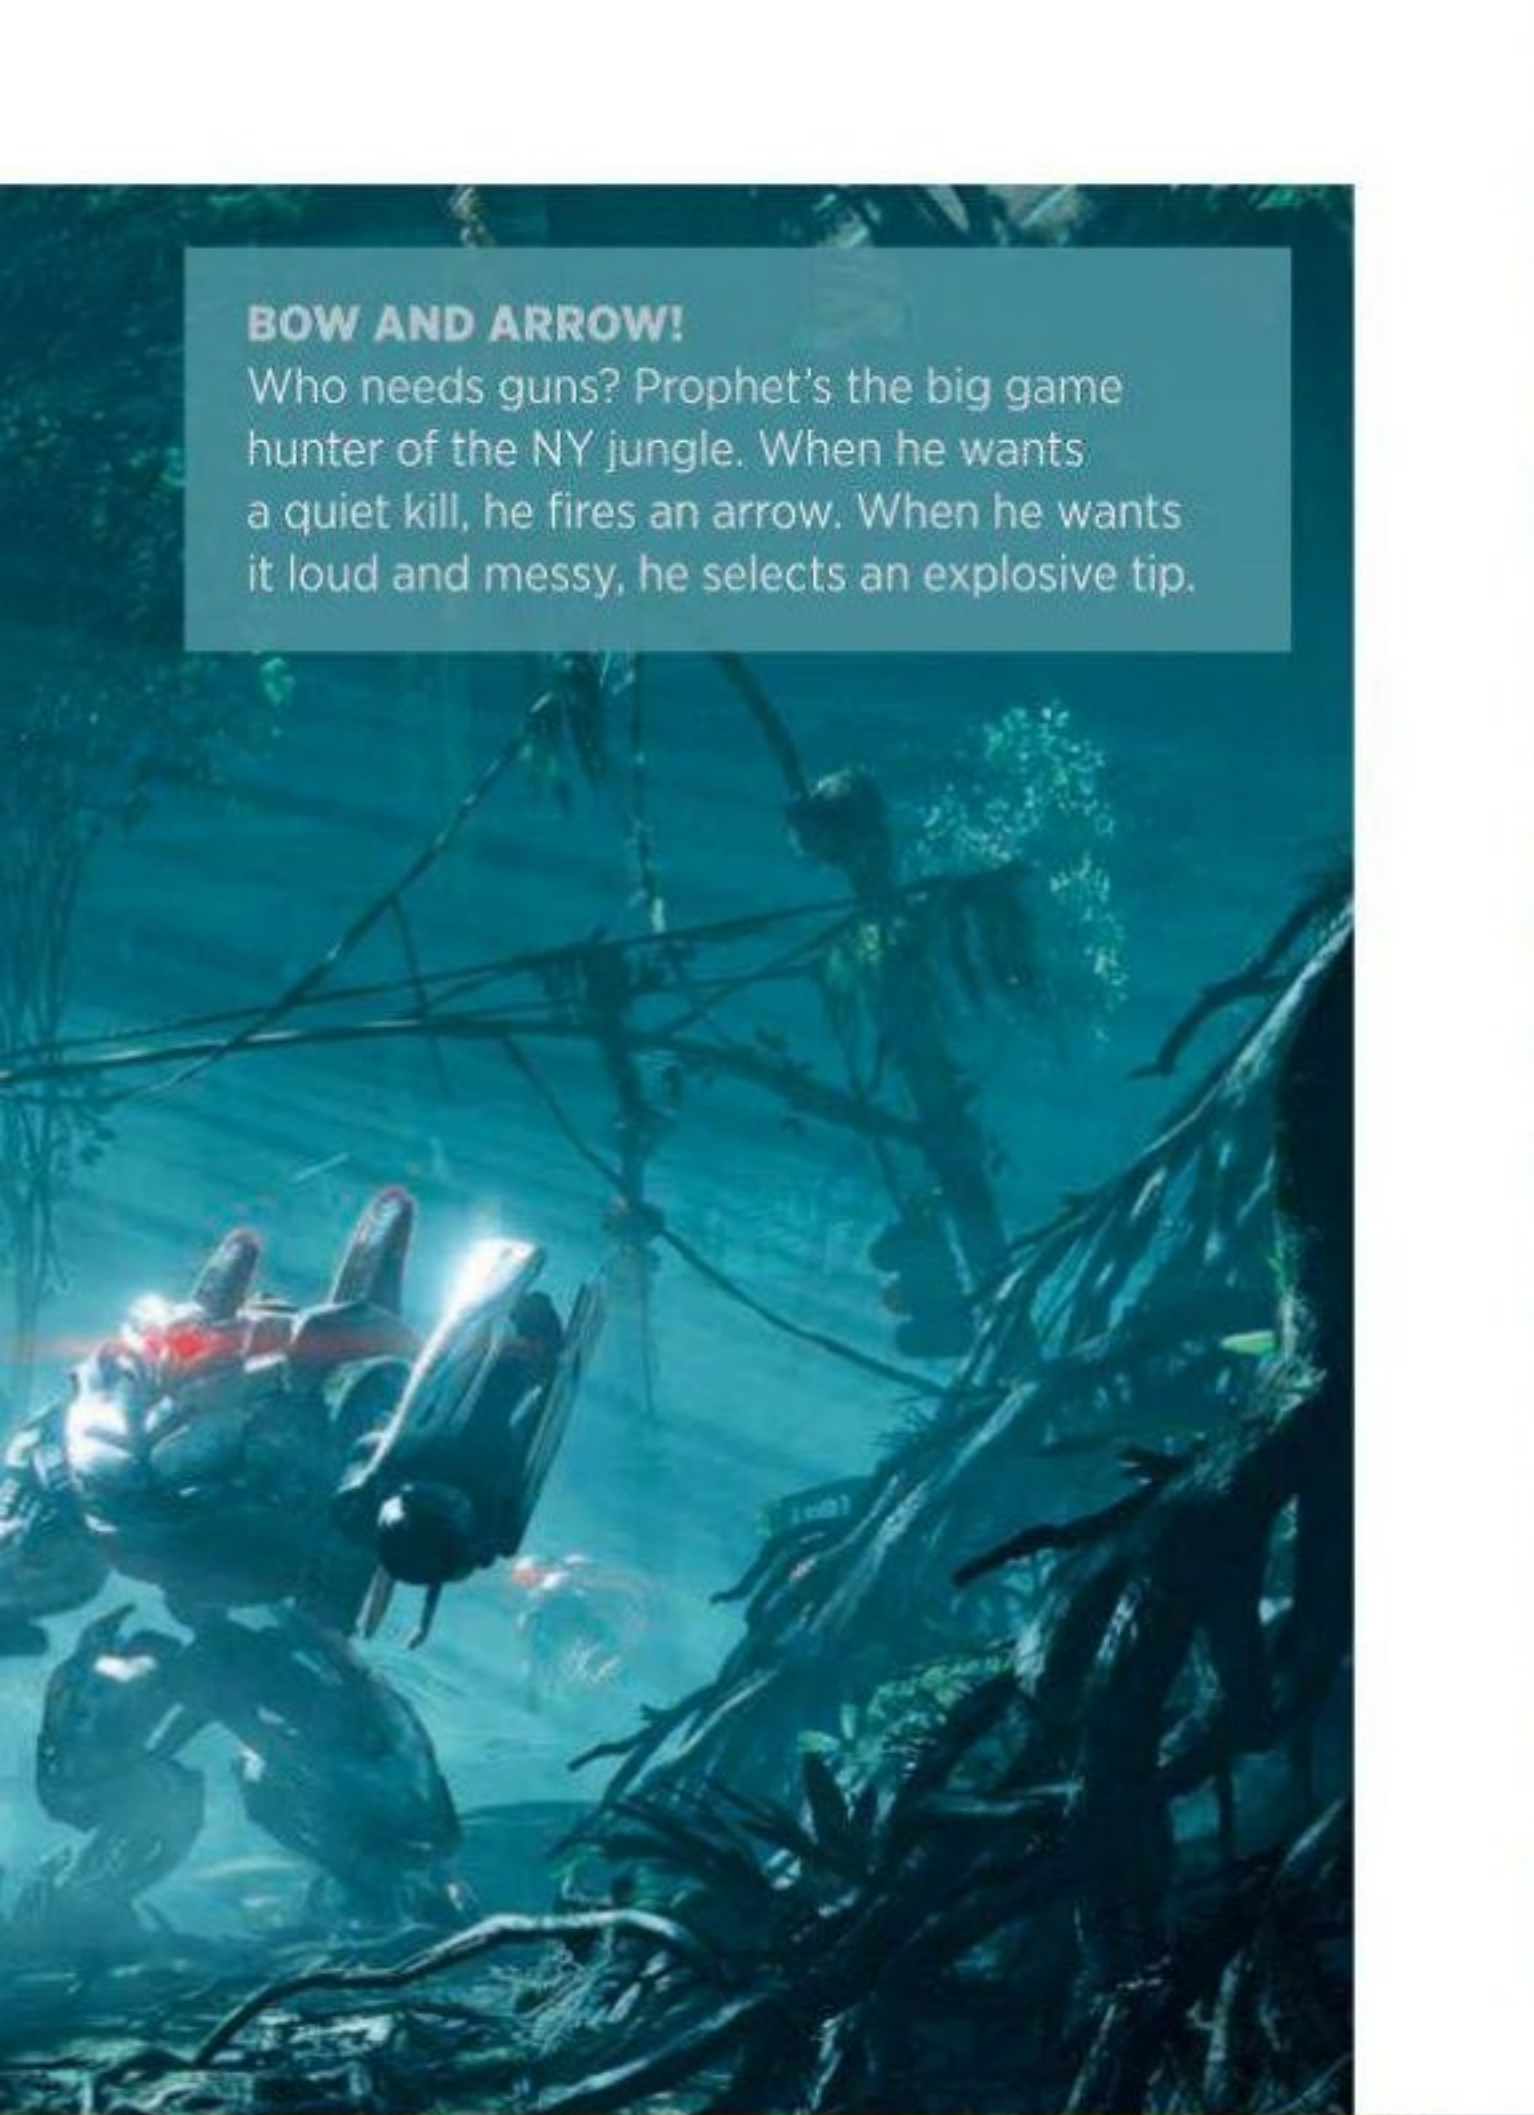

WIDE-OPEN COMBAT!

At the start, Prophet is busted out of captivity 20 years on from the events of Crysis 2 – and New York has crumbled into open spaces where he can hunt, pretty much like Predator!

DAS DEVELOPER!

Nuts visited Crytek studios in Frankfurt for our exclusive sneak peek!

BOW AND ARROW!

Who needs guns? Prophet's the big game hunter of the NY jungle. When he wants a quiet kill, he fires an arrow. When he wants it loud and messy, he selects an explosive tip.

NEW SUIT ABILITIES!

Prophet's nanosuit has super strength, speed and invisibility – and now hacks alien tech and can fire their own weapons back at them. Send some plasma pain back where it came from!

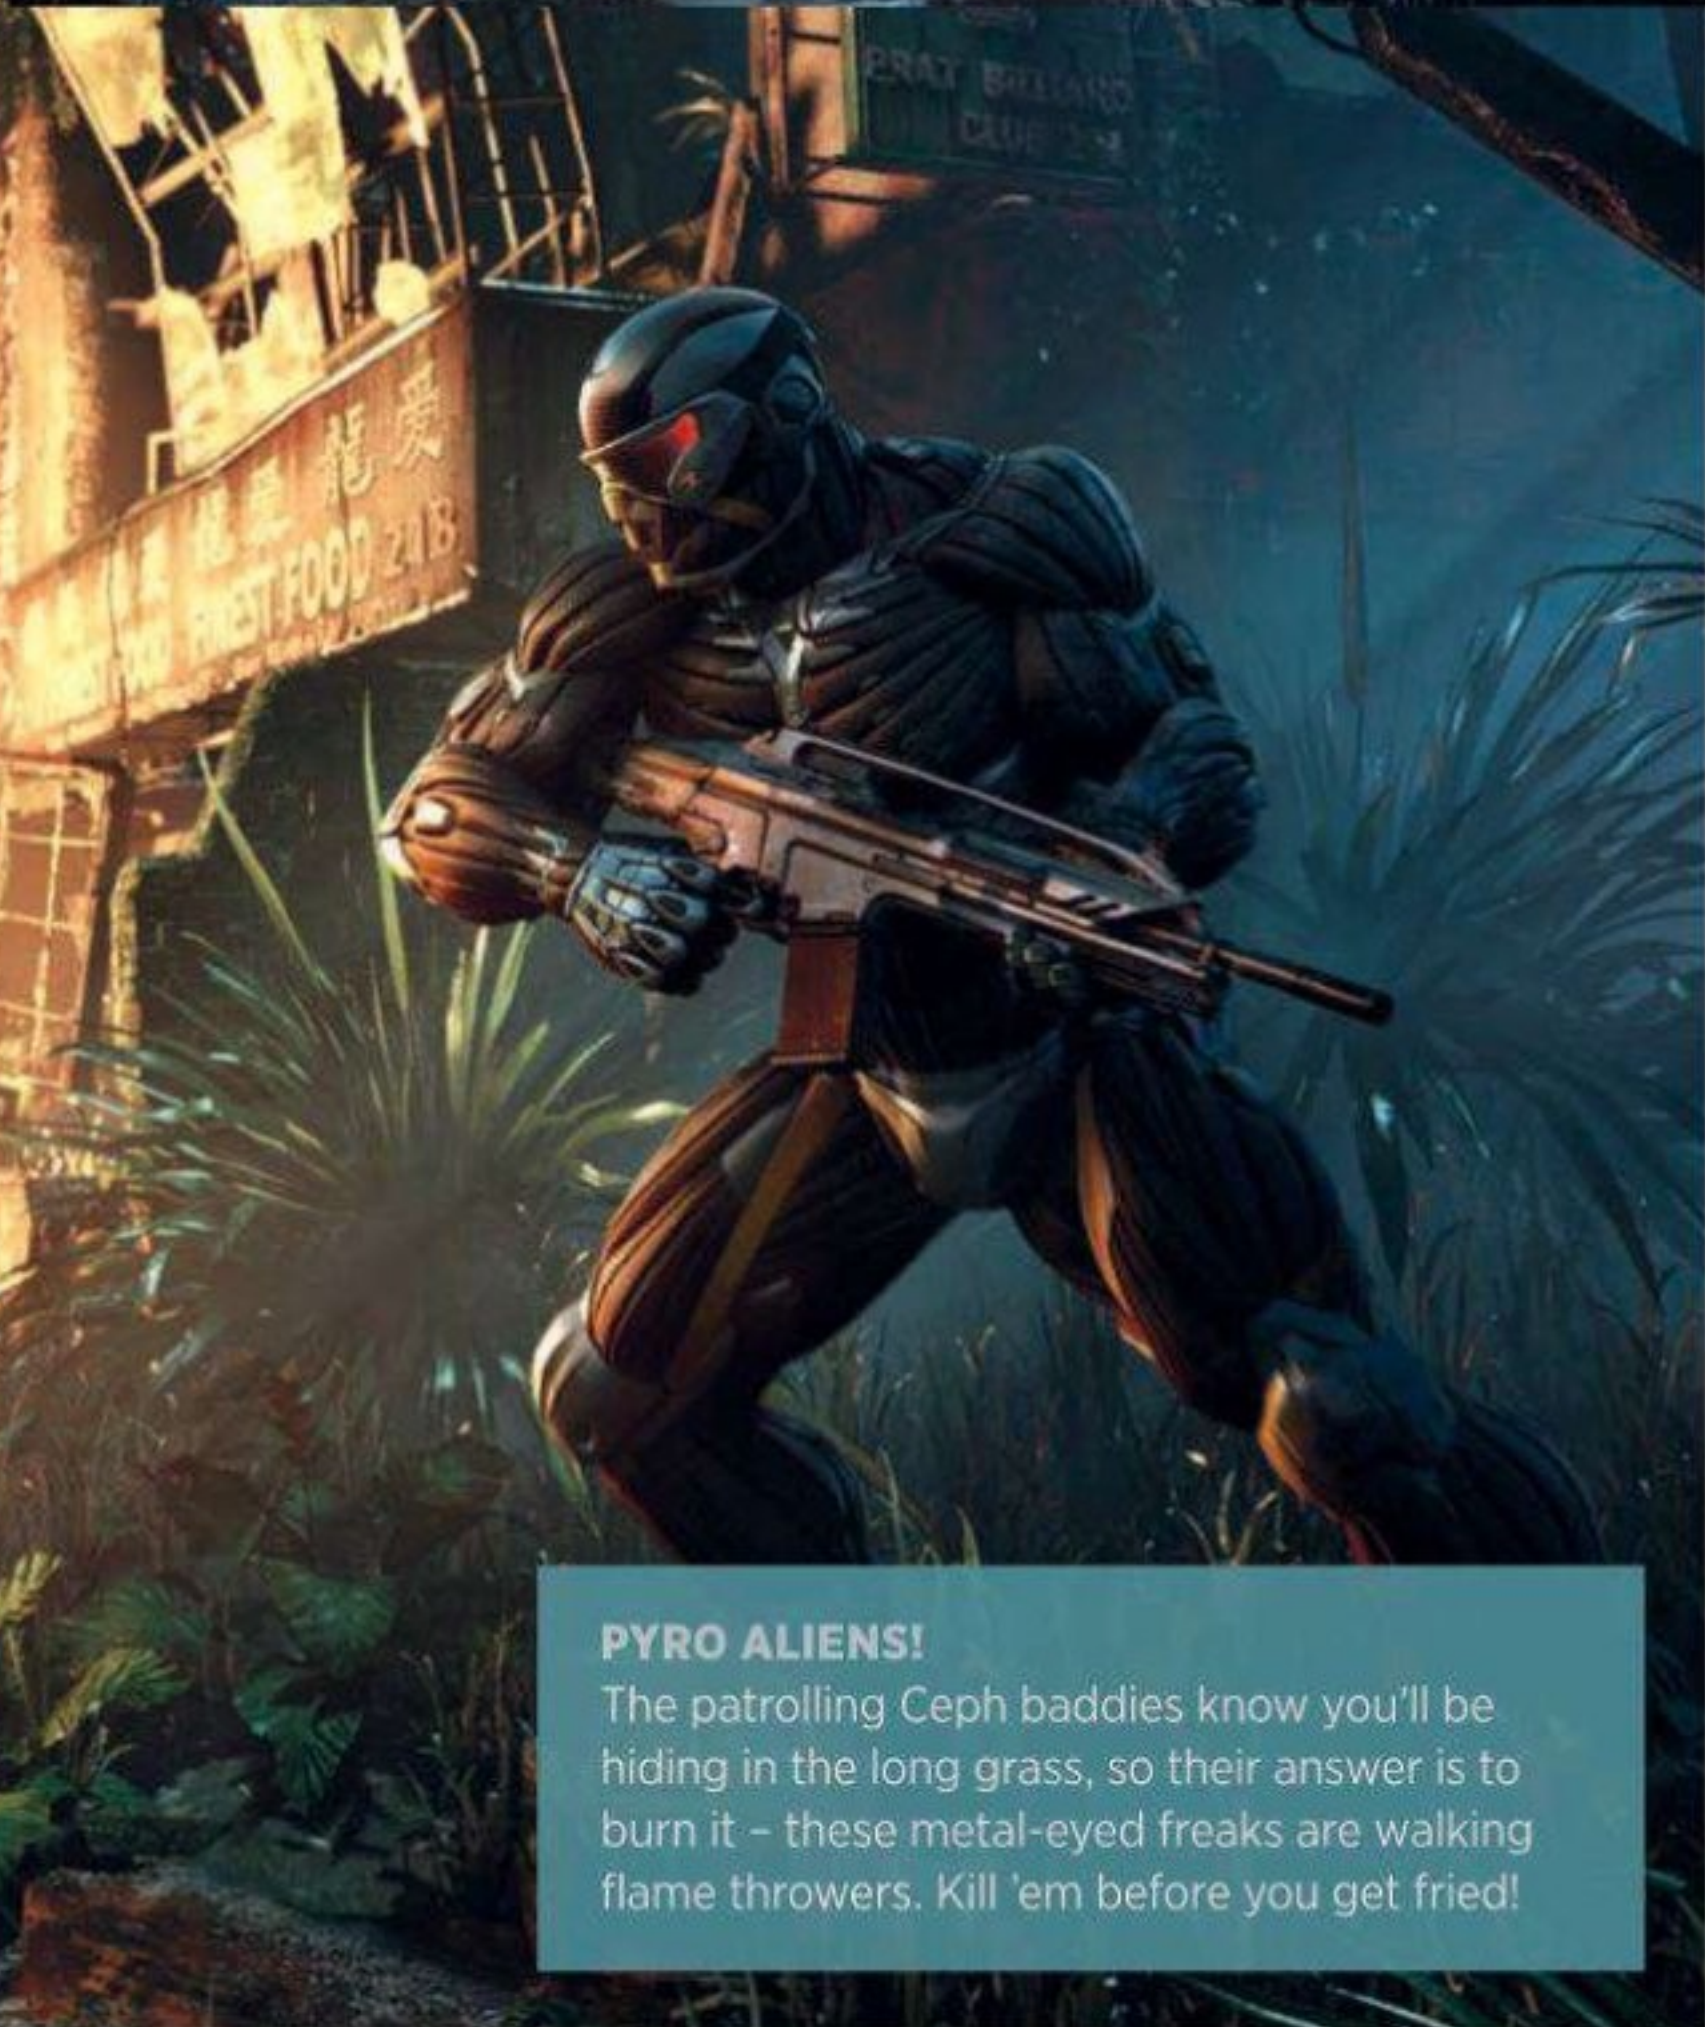

THE HUNTER GETS HUNTED!

You can be a sneaky hunter all you like, but these little guys can flush you out. When you hear the alarm and some alien roaring, you know it's time to bring out the big guns.

PYRO ALIENS!

The patrolling Ceph baddies know you'll be hiding in the long grass, so their answer is to burn it – these metal-eyed freaks are walking flame throwers. Kill 'em before you get fried!

'Shopping's here!'

Just the groceries being delivered, 240 miles up in space!

➔ THAT THING being lit up awesomely with lasers is space travel's version of your Tesco delivery. It's the Automated Transfer Vehicle Three about to dock, 240 miles above our heads, with the International Space Station.

The whole shebang: launch, dock, release and ditch is done entirely automatically, with laser targeting, and then the astronauts open it up to nab over seven tonnes of supplies – water, oxygen, food, clothing, new science experiments and fuel. They then fill it with garbage and kick it off, where it burns up on re-entry.

Sadly, there was no Nuts in the care package. So quite what they're supposed to read on the space toilet is quite beyond us!

ATV-3 facts

- This single use ship is the world's biggest spaceship.
- It'll remain docked for six months to fill up with 13 tonnes of trash, before ditching.
- It has a name – Edoardo Amaldi – after the Italian physicist who helped create the European Space Agency.
- It's 10.7m long and 4.5m wide.
- One of its first jobs was to use its boosters to increase the International Space Station's orbit by almost 4km in a 15-minute burn.

8.4-litre Dodge Viper!

After a long absence, Dodge's venomous Viper bites back!

- The three-year-plus wait for a new Dodge Viper is over. Dodge's new supercar snake – officially named the SRT Viper – is poised to take a bite out of any challengers... which could well be its driver, if it's anything like the old car!
- No Ferrari, Lamborghini, Aston Martin or any other exotic car has boasted a motor of over 8.0-litres. A power plant with no turbos, no superchargers – the Dodge Viper has a sledgehammer of good ol' stars'n'stripes V10 power.
- Visually, Dodge hasn't strayed far from the original Viper recipe. A look at the side or rear reveals low-slung curves carved out of pure Viper DNA. Which we like. A lot.
- Like its older brothers, the Viper is built around a steel space-frame chassis, but now many of the body panels have been crafted from carbon fibre. Only the doors are made from metal – and even they're only aluminium – to stake the weight below 1,500kg. Plus, the bodyshell's now 50 per cent stiffer, according to the dudes at Dodge.
- That sprawling bonnet is long and deeply sculpted with ventilation grilles for a reason: it's got to cover the iconic V10 engine and let it snort fresh oxygen – 8.4-litres need a lot of breathing space, especially when tuned to 640bhp.
- Lack of power was never a gripe with the previous Viper, but now there's a record amount of grunt. The Viper will have the third highest power-to-weight ratio of any production car, beaten only by Bugatti's Veyron and the Ferrari F12. But the real gossip is the torque numbers. There's 600lb-ft of twist on tap, which is a production car record for a non-turbo/supercharger pure-power engine.
- You probably want to know exactly how fast this angry snake will be? Well, Dodge haven't released such details, but we estimate 0-60 will be in the 3s (3.4, we reckon) and 640bhp will be enough to crack well over 200mph.
- The biggest step in Viper evolution has been in the soft furnishings department. A quick glance at the interior pictures waves goodbye to the traditionally awful upholstery and clunky tech of old. Instead, say hello to such luxuries as bluetooth multimedia touchscreens, an onboard data logging system (to monitor 0-60 sprints, etc), instrument buttons that don't feel like they've come out of a Christmas cracker and plush, stitched cow skin. Ultra-light Sabelt seats are very similar to Ferrari's chairs, together with six-point race harnesses – great for track days, pants if you're running late for work.
- The Viper factory production line promises to start rolling out these beauties by the end of the year, being hewn together in the home of American muscle cars – Detroit, Michigan. Expect to part with £85,000 if you want one. And don't expect it to be right-hand drive!

Whole world's a map with Google's cool concept

➔ GOOGLE TRULY are an epically clever bunch of nerdy geeks. Having fixed that internet, they're now looking for ways of spending the volcanoes of cash it's generated, including this, their "Project Glass" concept.

It's a tiny screen which hovers above your eye, linked to an Android phone. So it's GPS enabled, and smart. Look at a clock and it'll throw up your schedule.

Look at the sun and it'll bung up a forecast. Get lost and it'll display a map to guide you.

It'll even record video and upload it direct to the internet. So, hopefully, it has a "drunk mode" where it recognises robust shouting and chronic swaying, and shuts itself down. For your own protection.

A quick word with James DeGale

The boxing chap on bring rusty, British boxing and tap dancing!

Hi James! What sort of shape are you in?

I've been training for eight weeks so I'm ready!

Your last fight was cancelled at short notice. Did you find that annoying?

Yeah, because I was ready for that fight. I just want to get back in the ring and defend my European title now.

Do you think you'll be rusty?

I don't think so. My trainer's a fitness guru so he's always working me hard, even if I haven't got a fight coming up. I'm in great condition.

Are you planning to knock Cristian Sanavia out?

That's the plan. I don't want to leave it for the judges to decide. It's a neutral venue [the fight's in Denmark] as he's from Italy but there's still a risk.

You always said you wanted to be a world champion by 2012. Do you think that'll happen?

I'm not sure. It may be a bit tight now because of things that have happened behind closed doors. Hopefully, by the end of the year I can still do it.

Would you fight in America?

Yeah, I'd like to fight in Las Vegas. That's the dream for any boxer. Hopefully, I'll be doing that in the next year.

What do you think about the state of British boxing?

People keep putting it down but I think it's on a high. We've got so many people on the verge of world titles like me and Kell Brook.

You train in Essex. Do you hang out with the TOWIE lot?

Ha-ha! No, not really. I'm friends with Mark Wright so we go out now and again.

He gets quite a lot of stick but he's a good lad.

Thanks, James! Finally, have you thought about what you'll do when you retire?

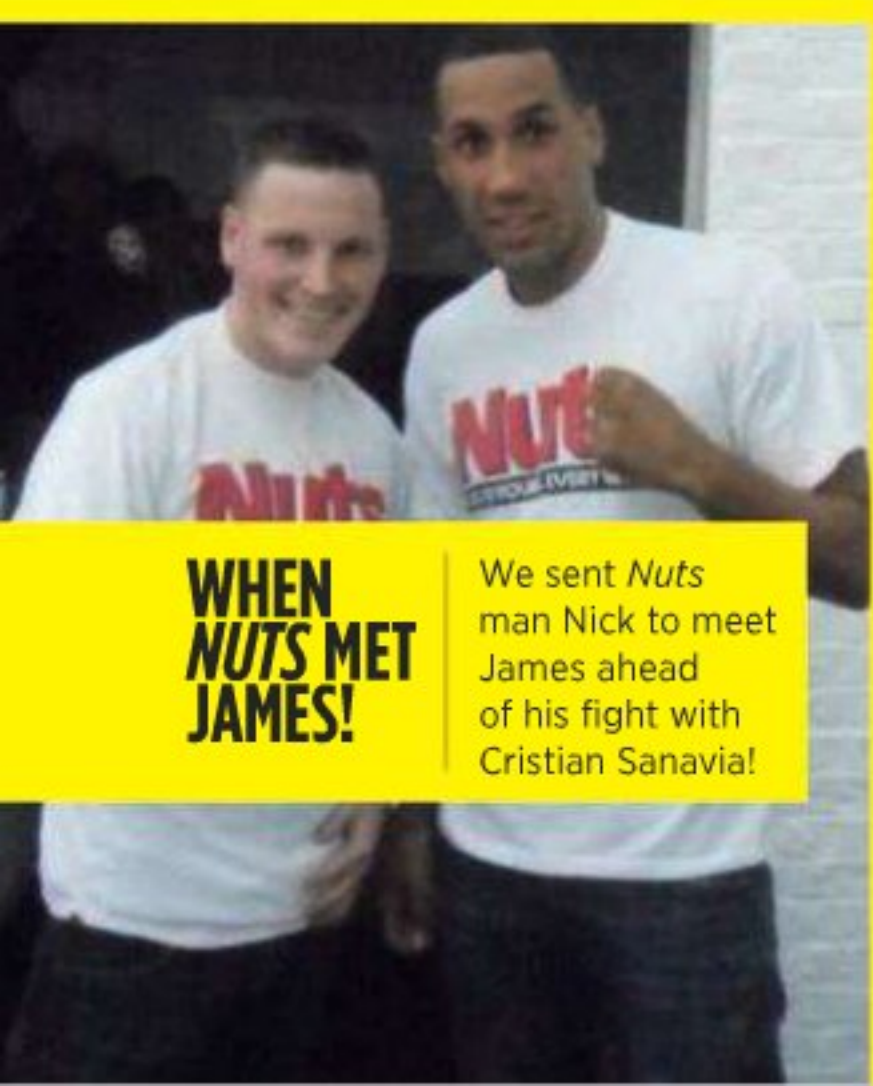

I think every fighter does. I could do some presenting or commentating on boxing. I'd like to train fighters as well. I'm willing to try stuff. I'd even give acting a go!

Can you act?

Yeah, I went to a stage school, so I can do all that performing and stuff. I even did some tap dancing!

● James DeGale vs Cristian Sanavia will be on BoxNation (Sky 456/Virgin 546) on Saturday

'I heard the wrist crunch apart!'

Keep fit leads to painful arm slit!

➔ WE'VE ALWAYS insisted that too much exercise is bad for you, but this gaping gash belonging to Martin Houlbrooke should be enough to put you off "keep fit" for life!

"I was using one of those step workout DVDs when I missed my footing and took a tumble towards the floor," explains the unfortunate electrical technician, from Shropshire.

"As I was falling, I managed to twist my wrist and land right on top of it. The wrist snapped in two and I could hear it crunch," adds Martin.

"I initially had some surgery to fix it, but it made my hand swell to the size of an orange. They had to undo everything and give me just a partial sew-up. When they first took the bandages off and this was the gaping wound I saw, I was a bit shocked to say the least!"

With tendons and bones on display in all their glory, Martin now faces an agonising few weeks of recovery and the possibility of skin grafts, although he tells Nuts he's not giving up on exercise just yet.

Well, we're pretty sure this isn't how he initially imagined being "ripped"!

SEX ADVICE FROM A FIT LESBIAN!

Because she knows what she's doing and we don't!

DANNI ORSI,
100% REAL
LESBIAN!

You might recognise Danni from hit TV show Candy Bar Girls on Channel 5

Her sex tape has put me off!

My missus made a sex tape with her ex, who used to be my mate, and I saw it recently. Now I can't get the image of them out of my head and it's ruining our sex life. What should I do?

DIRK Stoke

You haven't told me enough for a full psychological analysis. How did she come to be with you when she'd been with your former mate? Why is he no longer your mate? Did you steal her from him? Do you feel guilty? On a more practical note, the fact you've seen the tape surely makes very little difference. You already knew that his c*ck used to be inside her, so what's new? Is he bigger than you? Is this the problem? Don't worry about it. If the lady likes you, try and be content with that. She's probably shagged other men before you and you're not worrying about them!

ILLUSTRATION: BILL MCCONKEY

LETTER OF THE WEEK!

She doesn't do romance!

My girlfriend just isn't very romantic and it's getting on my nerves. Every time I plan a nice evening in, she gets really nervous and awkward. If I cook a meal and light some candles, she always suggests we go to the pub instead. What do you think I'm doing wrong?

CHARLIE Tottenham

Don't worry about it. She's just not the type for schmaltzy schmoozing. All she wants is to be out and about with you, have fun and shag you to within an inch of your life. All your romantic stuff probably makes her feel threatened. Chill out, go to the pub then bang away.

I slept with my flatmate!

Me and my new flatmate got drunk last week and ended up in bed. We both have partners and neither of them know. But it's causing so much tension they've picked up on it. Help!

JOEY via email

Do you both want to stay with your partners? If so, put it behind you. But if you want to make your shag a regular thing, you have decisions to make.

Secrets at my finger tips?

My female friends have told me that fingering is a long-lost art. What do I need to know?

JB Scunthorpe

It's not a lost art in the lesbian community – it's one of our main sources of pleasure! Maybe you lot are too reliant on your c*cks. A sensitive index finger on the clitoris can be more effective than a great big rubbery muscle. Hand span is such that your index finger can caress the clit while your little finger slips into her anus. There are many variations. And lick your fingers afterwards.

A MAN walks into a doctor's office and says, "Doctor, my stomach's killing me!"

The doctor says, "Well, let's start with your diet. What kind of food do you eat?"

"I eat snooker balls," replies the patient.

"Snooker balls?" the doctor asks. "What do you mean you eat snooker balls?"

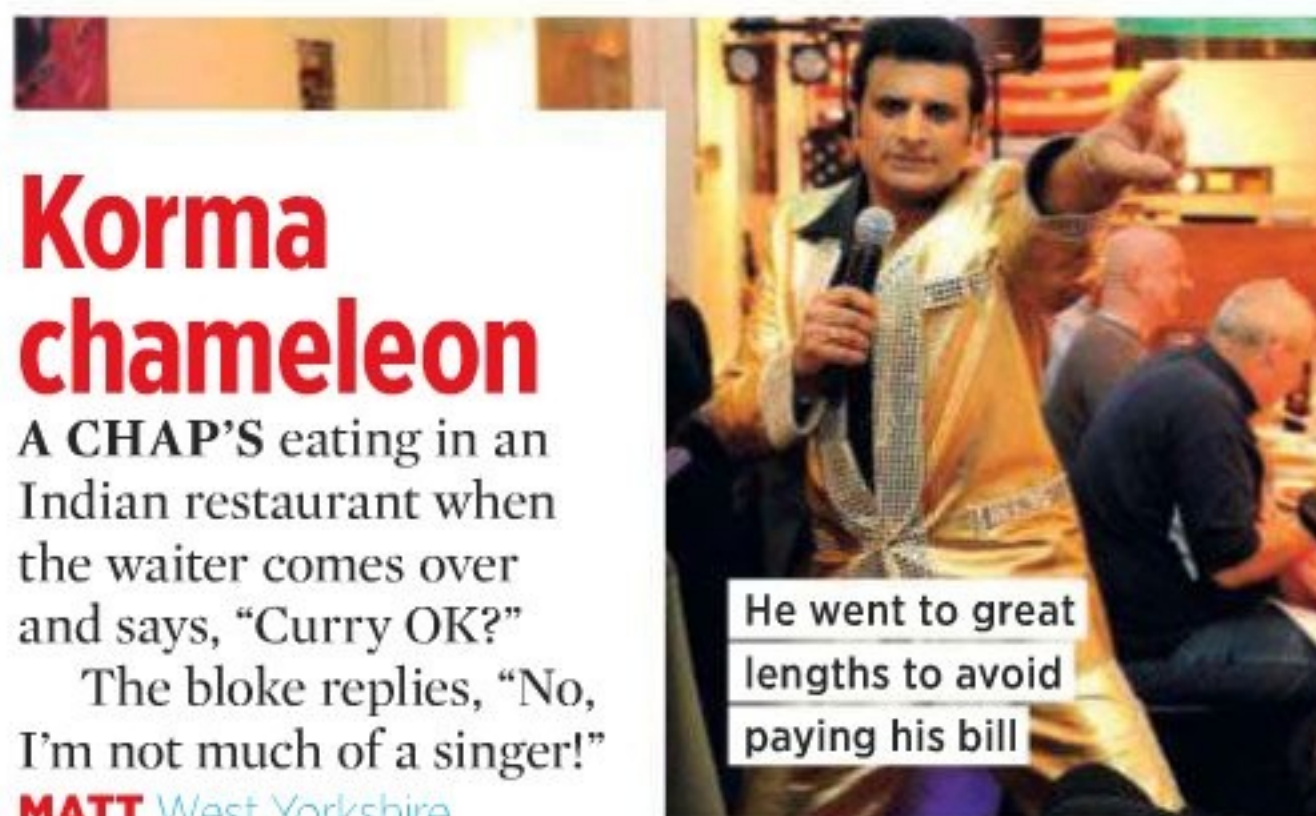

"I eat the red ones for breakfast. I eat the white and black ones for lunch. I eat the blue and yellow ones for dinner," explains the man.

The doctor ponders this and nods his head saying, "Yes, I see. Well, I think I've worked out what your problem is."

"Really?" asks the patient, surprised.

"Yep," says the doctor. "Not enough greens!"

Grape escape

TWO MEN shipwrecked on an island are captured by cannibals. The head cannibal tells the blokes that the only way they'll avoid being eaten by them is if they undergo the "Ordeal of Fruit." The men accept this immediately.

"Go into the jungle and return with 100 pieces of fruit!" instructs the chief.

The first man comes back with 100 grapes.

"OK, if you can shove all the grapes up your bottom without being sick you'll be free," explains the cannibal.

The bloke tries this, but as soon as the first grape reaches his bottom the captive bursts out laughing.

"What's so funny?" the chief asks. "Don't you realise we're going to kill you now?"

"I know," the bloke replies. "It's just that my friend is out there collecting pineapples!"

They have dinner, then drinks, then go dancing and, eventually, she invites him back for a night of mind-blowing sex.

The next morning, the chap asks, "Do you make a habit of sleeping with guys you've only just met?"

"No," she replies, "But you just happened to catch my eye!"

ROSIE & HOLLY

Rosie & Holly!

The cheeky twosome get super sexy!

ROSIE & HOLLY

Hi girls! You two are notorious party animals when you get together. What's the wildest thing you've done recently?

Rosie: Ha-ha! Oh no, is that what we're known for? To be fair, Vegas was incredibly wild. We forgot that we were pretty much drunk the whole time out there, tweeting really inappropriate pictures.

Holly: We didn't do anything that bad! India [Reynolds] got kicked out of a really posh nightclub one night for being too rowdy. We had to watch ourselves on CCTV prating around. It was like something out of The Hangover!

What do the Americans make of your antics?

R: We did get a lot of attention, but mainly because we were all so glammed up.

H: It's weird because you expect somewhere like Vegas to be dead glitzy, but we looked like the poshest ones there. Everyone was dressed really casually. People were coming up saying, "Hey, we've seen you girls around!"

Do you have many fans overseas?

H: I remember one guy was Rosie's biggest fan – he had her calendars and everything. He was, like, [puts on American accent] "Oh, my gawd – it's Rosie Jones!" Ha-ha! It's weird because you expect only British people to know Nuts, but the Yanks love it!

R: I fell in love with a cowboy. We love the Yanks!

Which one song never fails to get you boogying on down to the dance floor?

H: For some reason, I always associate a Chris Brown song with going out... it always seems to be on!

R: I wouldn't say that's even our sort of music, usually, but you know when you have, like, an anthem that always seems to sum up your night out? It'd have to be Chris Brown!

“We didn’t do anything that bad in Vegas”
Holly

ROSIE & HOLLY

You guys go away together a lot – any exciting holidays planned for this year?

R: We need to book one!

H: I want to go back to Vegas in summer because all the pools were closed last time. Can you imagine all the mischief we could get up to?

R: I think we will go away, yeah. Miami would be awesome, but I think we're all going to get out to Tenerife.

What do you love about each other so much?

R: I feel like we're on a date! I do like Peers' boobs.

H: I think Rosie's so easy to get on with, so easy-going. I've never seen her get angry or impatient with anyone. She's like my loving wife!

R: Yeah, we immediately clicked. We don't have to spend all this time together out of work. We love going out together and to travel the world. We just get drunk and outrageous together. I love that Peers will have a beer for breakfast on holiday!

Amazing! Do you notice any of each other's bad habits, too?

H: We're equally disgusting! Especially when we pig out on junk food and post pictures of our food babies on Twitter!

R: I like that we can talk about rude things as if they're normal everyday conversations. I think we sometimes shock people.

H: I keep thinking of tweeting that I want a Fiat 500, just to see what happens. I don't think I can bring myself to do it.

R: This is going to sound really pathetic, but I wanted a one-piece, so we rang them up and pretended to be "Rosie Jones' agent". It didn't work.

H: The amount of Nando's we eat, we should get one of those black cards.

R: Yeah, give us a black card, you b*stards! Ha-ha!

Finally, who's the biggest hero on the planet right now?

H: Will Ferrell for saying he's doing Anchorman 2!

R: Oh, my god, he's my hero. I literally can't wait! X

“We just get drunk and outrageous when we're together!”

GUY PEARCE

The Hollywood superstar talks bodybuilding, Prometheus and his new film, Lockout!

G'day Guy! Tell us about your new film.

It's set in the future, where the criminals are put to sleep in a space station orbiting Earth. Of course, it all goes wrong when the President's daughter is taken hostage, so the special ops guy I play is sent to save the day. I've been asked to do movies like this before but they took themselves too seriously. Lockout is produced by Luc Besson, who made Taken, so it's action all the way!

Tell us about your character, Snow?

He's a smart alec who doesn't give a sh*t – like John McClane in Die Hard. He's too old for this and can't be fked!

Did you work on your six-pack for the role?

It's just a big, old one-pack now. I was a lot thinner when I got the part, so they were worried I wouldn't bulk up enough. But I didn't need a trainer because I did bodybuilding as a kid.

Why do Aussies make such good action heroes?

It's the outdoors living. Being out in the heat and the dust toughens you up.

When you're in the US filming away from home, what are the things you miss the most about Australia?

I miss my family and my dogs. I can phone my wife but you can't really Skype with an Egyptian hunting hound! I do miss Australian chocolate. I don't know why, but pom chocolate doesn't taste the same.

What do you do when you're not acting?

I'm a massive Aussie rules football fan. I played a bit in high school. Geelong are my team and I've been supporting them since I was a kid. Some people find it hard to follow when they don't know the rules because it's quite a detailed game. And pretty rough, too. And there are lots of goals. I'm no expert, but your football can be really frustrating – you can watch a game for two hours and no one scores!

As you were born in England, are your allegiances ever split?

They were for a while. When I was younger, I felt like an English guy hanging on to his roots while growing up in Oz. I still love the UK and have a real connection with it, but when I started spending a lot of time away with work, I realised that Melbourne was home and that deep down I'm Australian.

Actors are always considered to be really serious people, so tell us something funny that you've seen recently.

I'll tell you the weirdest thing that happened to me. It was the first day on a TV movie called Jack Irish. It's 8am, I'm in costume on set and the crew are all ready to go. Suddenly, I thought I was dying! They rushed me to hospital and turns out I had a kidney stone.

Jesus Christ, it was fking painful!

You've starred alongside some incredible leading ladies – do you ever get intimidated?

Yeah, absolutely. It was pretty nerve-racking doing a sex scene with Kim Basinger on L.A. Confidential. And I was intimidated by the thought of working with Catherine Zeta-Jones [in Death Defying Acts] but she was so chilled, the nerves went out the window and we had such a laugh. Equally, when I got the chance to work with people I really admire like John Hurt or when I met Gary Oldman, I was a bit starstruck.

Have you ever been asked to do something during filming and thought, "No chance!"

Most things are in the script but I did have an experience where I signed on based on the script – I'm not going to tell you which one – then I turned up in the country where it was being filmed, arrived at my hotel room and there was a completely different script waiting for me. I flipped out! It wasn't what I'd agreed to, but I had to work my way through it.

What's your maddest Hollywood moment?

When I got there, it took a while to make my mark, but after L.A. Confidential it was a really enjoyable ride. Being in Neighbours was like instant Beatlemania. My career has kind of been about getting away from that sort of hype.

When you're in Blighty are you always "that bloke from Neighbours"?

I could be anywhere in England and, thanks to Neighbours, it's, "G'day Mike!" At the time, the whole thing made no sense to me. People were screaming at us like we were changing the world! We weren't.

We spotted you in the viral teaser for Prometheus. What hints can you give us about the film?

It's pretty top-secret but, the thing is, it's not an Alien prequel, as such. There's a connection, particularly through my character, Peter Weyland [the Weyland corporation owned the Nostromo spaceship in Alien]. But the philosophy behind Ridley Scott's new story – the search for the origins of mankind – goes way beyond Alien. It's a standalone sci-fi epic. X

● Lockout is in cinemas everywhere 20 April.

GUY PEARCE

“I felt like an English guy hanging on to his roots while growing up in Oz”

Guy Pearce facts!

- Guy has a recording studio in his house and sang with a jazz-funk band called The Unconscious Brothers.
- The ex-Neighbours star won the Junior Mr Victoria bodybuilding competition when he was 16.
- He used to be a big stoner. “That instant hit from the tobacco followed by feeling stoned – you really can’t do one without the other.”
- After working with the notorious British comedian on Adam Sandler’s Bedtime Stories, Guy joked he had a man crush on Russell Brand.

1. THE TALIBAN'S BACK YARD

"Last year I accompanied a British patrol deep into southern Afghanistan. It was a heliborne assault. The idea was to surprise the Taliban by landing in their back yard. This is the view out the back of the Chinook. Over the rear gunner's shoulder you can see the pilot deploying chaff to deter ground fire."

Jason P Howe has photographed wars for ten years

SAVING PRIVATE BAINBRIDGE

THE TALIBAN LAY OVER 16,000 CONCEALED BOMBS IN AFGHANISTAN EVERY YEAR, BUT THE MOMENT WHEN ONE OF THESE HIDDEN KILLERS IS TRIGGERED HAS NEVER BEEN PHOTOGRAPHED. UNTIL NOW. HERE FOR THE FIRST TIME IS AN ACCOUNT OF HOW A BRITISH ARMY PATROL COPEd WITH ONE. PHOTOGRAPHER JASON P HOWE TALKS US THROUGH HIS PICTURES...

3. JUST BEFORE THE BLAST

"We headed towards a compound. It was a 12-man patrol and I was seventh in line. This is Private Stephen Bainbridge from The Black Watch. He was eighth. I took this shot of him just before I stepped through a door in the compound wall. Seconds later Bainbridge stepped through it and triggered the bomb."

2. AN EERIE START TO THE DAY

"I was with troops from The Princess of Wales' Royal Regiment and The Black Watch. Almost as soon as we ran into the open farmland off the back of the Chinook, machine gun fire opened up on us – then suddenly stopped. Nobody saw where it had come from. It was an eerie start to the day."

A close-up shot shows two soldiers in camouflage uniforms and helmets attending to a casualty lying on the ground. The casualty is wearing a helmet and has a visible wound on their head. The soldiers are focused on providing medical aid. The ground is covered with dry leaves and twigs.

4. THE MEDIC SAVED HIS LIFE

"There was this huge silence. Nobody was screaming. Then a voice called out of the smoke, 'It's me, Bainbridge. I'm the casualty.' The blast had blown his legs to shreds. The medic in the middle is 21. He'd never treated anyone in combat before, but his skills and quick thinking saved Bainbridge's life."

5. BLOWN OFF HIS FEET

"The guy on the left here is the platoon commander. He'd been behind Bainbridge when the bomb exploded and was blown off his feet. Bomb fragments had torn up his face and there was a chunk gouged out of his eye protection, which had saved his sight. He was stunned but still functional."

7. WE HAD TO KEEP GOING

"As we ran to the landing site everyone was shouting 'dig in, keep going.' We were all bunched together carrying that stretcher and a thought kept pestering me, that if just one of us steps on another IED then we're all going to be casualties. It's perhaps the most vulnerable that I've ever felt."

AS TOLD TO NICK SOLDINGER PHOTOS: JASON P HOWE

6. THE THREAT CONTINUES...

“By now the medevac helicopter had been called out and the platoon were rushing to get Bainbridge to the landing site. At this point I grabbed the stretcher. The continuing threat meant I couldn’t really do my own job, plus it freed up a soldier to offer protection. We could have been attacked at any time.”

8. DEADLY SNIPER ATTACK

“A Taliban sniper opened up as the medevac landed. Eager to get their wounded mate out safely, the soldiers all returned fire. Private Bainbridge (who consented to Nuts printing these pics) was in surgery within 35 minutes, while we pushed on without him. It was the first morning of a four-day patrol.”

BILLIE FAIERS

Billie Faiers!

The TOWIE stunner's back and she's hotter than ever!

BILLIE ON TOWIE!

Billie's been one of the cast of TOWIE since 2010. In it, she runs a boutique with sister Sam.

BILLIE FAIERS

“I’ve been getting up to lots of mischief
recently!”

Hi Billie! Welcome back to Nuts! What's new with you?

I've been working lots, shooting lots, and I've spent lots of time abroad – hence the tan. Dubai was wicked. I was out clubbing every night and getting up to mischief. It was like something out of The Hangover! Our cab crashed one night because they all drive like lunatics out there. So, yeah, lots of drama.

So, do people in Dubai go mad for TOWIE?

Oh my god – we must have had literally hundreds of people asking to have photos with us. You just don't expect it out there, do you? You actually can't even watch TOWIE on Dubai TV, so there are people who are buying channels especially to watch us. It always surprises me.

What sort of things can we expect in the new series?

I'm not really sure, but I think there will definitely be some new characters. We're expanding so much that we're going to end up with a bigger cast than Corrie at this rate!

Do you ever worry that you won't get on with some of the new cast members?

It's weird. It's like we're a family so anyone who comes into the group, I think they should be a bit apprehensive. If it were me, I'd just be so friendly to everyone just to fit in. If people don't and are arsey, then none of us like it and we'll say something. Either way, it makes for good telly.

Do you see the day when shows like TOWIE will be more popular than soaps?

I think it's been spoken about. I mean, people have talked about it getting to the point where it would be on five days a week, which would be funny. Everyone loves reality TV and I think TOWIE is really at the top. I'm not just saying that because I'm in it. ►

A full-page photograph of Billie Faiers. She is a blonde woman with shoulder-length hair, looking down and slightly to her left. She is wearing a black, strapless, halter-neck bra with a bow detail at the center, and black garter-style underwear. She is also wearing black thigh-high stockings. Her hands are resting on her thighs. The background is a light-colored wall with a subtle floral pattern and a decorative metal railing is visible on the right side.

BILLIE FAIERS

“A bloke who has a car can impress me!”

What about other reality shows? Do you watch any?

Do you know what, I don't. I barely get to watch any telly because I'm always doing something, so I can't catch up on Corrie or Hollyoaks, let alone other shows. I work in the shop all weekend, and I'm out lots. I did catch some Geordie Shore – I just think it's funny. They're mad, they're ruthless. It's a good show.

Not too long ago, Arg revealed to us that he's the only one who can't drive yet. What do you make of that?

He's a plonker! Seriously, how can he not drive yet? It's laziness – that's what I put it down to anyway. Good luck to him running the marathon, I really hope he does do it, but I can just see him pulling a muscle or something. If that happens, I'll be, like, "Whatever!" Ha-ha! But it's a good challenge for him.

So we need wheels if we want to impress you?

Yeah, definitely. I wouldn't want to be picking a bloke up for a date. If they don't drive, then they could at least hire a driver or hire a nice Bentley or something!

What other things do you look for in a chap?

Are you chatting me up? Ha! In general, I like it when boys are generous, when they smell nice, when they're a bit spontaneous, especially at the beginning of a relationship. Surprise days out are always a winner. They've got to have a sense of humour, and definitely get my mad sense of humour too!

How would you show us a good night out in Essex?

All the girls would meet round mine for champagne then we'd all go to a nice bar, then to a club. We'd dance, have a good night, then we'd all pile back to mine. At that point, we'd wake my mum up and get her to make us all cheese and ham toasties and a cup of tea. ►

BILLIE FAIERS

That's my midnight snack of choice, unless we can be bothered to go to McDonald's!

What do you order when you go to McDonald's?

I either get a small cheeseburger and a medium fries, or a Happy Meal. I love the little burgers!

If you weren't doing TOWIE, what would your 9 to 5 job be?

I'd love to be doing something like journalism and work for a magazine. So watch out – if TOWIE ever ends then I'm coming for your jobs Nuts!

Um, why don't you have a pop at doing more telly instead?

Hopefully I can get into that. I have a couple of bits coming up that will give me presenting experience, so I'm really looking forward to getting used to being in front of a camera and speaking in front of crowds.

Phew. Our jobs are safe! Are you excited about summer?

The denim shorts are out! Summer's going to be awesome. I'm going to Miami, then I'm off to Vegas, and it's all pleasure. Then later on I'm planning to get out to Ibiza for the closing parties.

What's the most surprising thing about you?

I really love assault courses. If I ever get the chance, I love to get involved with stuff like that – using zip wires, crawling under nets, that kind of thing. I'm an action woman. I'd like to do a TV show where I'm like Bear Grylls surviving in the wild.

Thanks, Billie! Finally, what would your own reality TV show be like?

I reckon it'd be very similar to Keeping Up With The Kardashians. Me and Sam could provide hours of entertainment – just like the Kardashians do!

● TOWIE airs on Sundays and Wednesdays on ITV2 at 10pm

The week's best TV, movies, games fashion, music and tech!

BARCA VS CHELSEA

TUESDAY •

SKY SPORTS 2/HD, 7PM

Chelsea go for glory!

"Oh, forget the football, Lionel – shall we dance?"

Friday 20 April

It was the least intimidating hold-up ever

NEW SERIES!

A League Of Their Own

SKY1/HD • 9pm

Jovial japes from James Corden, Freddie Flintoff and co, as they invite people from sport and comedy to lark around. This is Jack Whitehall's first episode as a regular panellist, so look out for his (quite literally) ball-busting initiation ceremony this week!

"So, about this stuntman career of yours..."

Not Going Out

BBC ONE/HD • 9.30pm

Remarkably, the guest star in this week's episode is none other than Bobby Ball, who appeared on I'm A Celebrity! a few years back with his '80s comedy partner Tommy Cannon. He plays Lee's dad, fresh out of hospital and expecting somewhere to stay – and his son to be the dutiful child and wait on him hand and foot.

"These cones are everywhere nowadays!"

Dexter

FX/HD • 10pm

After a yawn-inducing start to the new series, things are finally starting to get feisty in the murky world of Miami murder. That's because vigilante man Dexter's getting all excited at the prospect of a new and properly twisted killer who's copying gruesome scenes from the bible. Dexter at its bloodthirsty best!

LIP SERVICE

BBC THREE • 9pm

Lesbian drama. So, plenty of snogging and sex scenes, but you'll have to suffer a lot of melodrama to get there.

Saturday 21 April

Arsenal vs Chelsea

SKY SPORTS 2/HD • Noon

The winners of this may well be in the box seat for Champions League qualification, although Newcastle might have something to say about that. Chelsea will be out for revenge after the Gooners gave them a 5-3 drubbing earlier in the season.

Captain America: The First Avenger

SKY MOVIES PREMIERE/HD • 8pm

In the first film of the Avengers franchise, Chris Evans takes on the role of Steve Rogers, itching to fight for Uncle Sam during the Second World War. But he's a sickly small dude, who by the powers of science is transformed into Captain America.

UFC 145

ESPN/HD • 3am

Jon Jones is 5in taller than challenger to his light-heavyweight crown, Rashad Evans, has a 10in reach advantage, and throws spinning elbows faster than the blades rotate on an Apache helicopter. That said, Evans is as bright as he is brave and, as he once told Nuts, "Jon's never been rocked." Dynamite ahoy, gents!

ONE
MISSUS!

SMASH

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 10pm

First off the bat fellas, this is a musical drama. Groan. But if you must endure this with a lady, it does star Katharine McPhee, who's very pleasing.

Sunday 22 April

Man United vs Everton

SKY SPORTS 1/HD • Noon

For the second season in a row, Man United look like easing to the title without really looking that great. David Moyes' visitors will be hoping to throw a lifeline to Man City's challenge here, but even if they do, it's surely United's title to lose now.

World's Toughest Expeditions

DISCOVERY CHANNEL/HD • 9pm

Former Olympic gold medal-winning rower James Cracknell puts himself in harm's way following in the footsteps of history's great explorers. He begins in the Amazon, investigating the disappearance of jungle explorer Colonel Percy Fawcett.

Homeland

CHANNEL 4/HD • 9pm

There are only two more episodes of this mind-blowingly good drama left, and it's edge-of-your-seat stuff. CIA agents Carrie and Saul know who terrorist Tom Walker's contact is, but they're screwed because he has diplomatic immunity. But then Carrie digs up some serious dirt on the bloke to try and convince him to talk.

PERSPECTIVES: DAVID WALLIAMS: THE GENIUS OF DAHL

ITV1/HD • 10.15pm

Just because it's David Walliams hosting, doesn't mean it's good. He bangs on about Roald Dahl here.

Monday 23 April

No one liked the look of the jungle suppositories

Jungle Special: Inside Nature's Giants

CHANNEL 4/HD • 8pm

Best not watch this while having dinner, as vet scientist bloke Mark Evans heads into the darkest jungle to mooch at the biggest ants in the world and venomous centipedes.

"Is there something in my teeth?"

Grimm

WATCH/HD • 9pm

Detective Nick (who has the ability to spot mystical creatures who've taken on human form, and are often up to no good) comes across a suspicious murder case. He's on the hunt for a woman who is really – wait for it – a spider who must suck the life out of men in order to survive. Sounds exactly like our last girlfriend.

"But why can't I have my own helmet?"

Game Of Thrones

SKY ATLANTIC/HD • 9pm

We have our suspicions that villainous King Joffrey isn't long for his throne, especially as his (not real) uncles wend their way to King's Landing to make a play for the iron chair. Our favourite character, Tyrion Lannister, is also weaving all sorts of trouble, manipulating his sister Cersei and Joffrey like a master puppeteer.

SPECIES

SKY MOVIES
SCI-FI/HORROR •
10.30pm

An oldie horror flick where alien Natasha Henstridge is topless a lot. Great!

Tuesday 24 April

● New issue on sale today!

"Ooh, that's a nice boot!"

Barcelona vs Chelsea

SKY SPORTS 2/HD • 7pm

After a season of turmoil, Chelsea somehow face the Champions League holders for a place in the final in this second-leg tie. Ordinarily, we'd have few doubts the gifted hosts would go through, but with the mad season Chelsea are having, anything's possible.

"OK, who stole our fashion sense?"

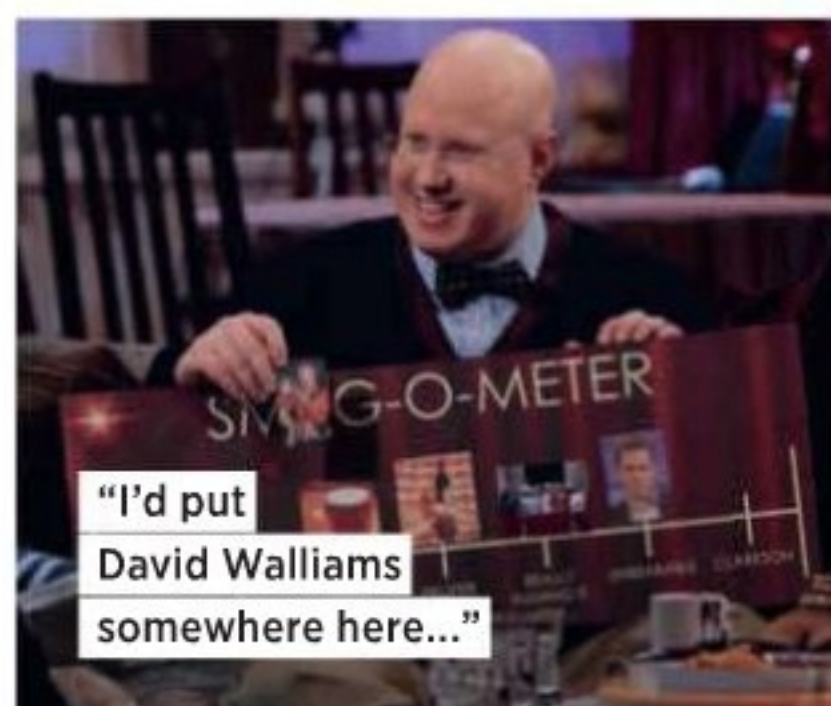

NEW SERIES!

Britain Unzipped

BBC THREE • 9pm

Unfortunately, not another show with Dawn Porter getting her kit off. This new Beeb programme is a massive questionnaire thingy that sets out to test the moral compass of this here mighty nation. Rubber-faced Russell Kane and radio DJ Greg James will be finding out things like, "How often do you delete your internet history?"

"I'd put David Walliams somewhere here..."

The Matt Lucas Awards

BBC ONE/HD • 10.35pm

Decent light entertainment hokum, as Matt invites a panel of "experts" (feminist Germaine Greer, barrister Clive Anderson and X Factor bloke Louis Walsh) to help him decide who should win a variety of absurd categories. Matt's mum shows up, too.

TOTAL RECALL

ITV2/HD • 10pm

Catch Arnie at his best in this sci-fi classic made in 1990 (there's a remake on the way!) but set on Mars in 2084. It's awesome.

Wednesday 25 April

It was the happiest kidnapping ever

Cedar Rapids

SKY MOVIES PREMIERE/HD • 6.15pm

A gentle-yet-amusing comedy starring Ed Helms (Stu from The Hangover) as a naive insurance salesman from a sleepy town. When he's sent to Cedar Rapids to represent his company at some big insurance bash, his eyes are opened to a whole new world by his new convention friends. Endearing, charming and sometimes really rude.

No one liked Karen's new "Gimme some Sugar, baby" catchphrase

The Apprentice

BBC ONE/HD • 9pm

It's off to bonnie Scotland this week, where Lord Sugar-challenges his budding business brains to flog street food in Edinburgh. The best bit is when one of the teams tries to sell posh nosh outside a footy stadium – someone really should have told them that "match day" means meat'n'tattie pies or the highway!

"What did you say about my plaid shirt?"

Justified

5USA • 9pm

Here's a bit of a predicament for poor Dewey – when he wakes up, he finds that his kidney's been stolen by naughty prison doctor Lance. Yep, it's the old "someone's pinched my vital organs" storyline. So, he has to head out on a crime spree to raise $20,000 to buy back his bits. Presumably, he'll need to do that really rather quickly...

TURTLE BOY:
A BODYSHOCK
SPECIAL

CHANNEL 4/HD • 10pm

The tale of a little Colombian lad with a giant mole covering 40 per cent of his body, resembling a shell. Thankfully, he's OK now. Harrowing, but heartwarming.

Thursday 26 April

"But we thought you were in here, we swear!"

2 Broke Girls

E4/HD • 9pm

This new Yank comedy about, you guessed it, two broke girls is surprisingly rude and funny. There are some proper LOL lines ("That girl is working harder than Stephen Hawking putting on a pair of cufflinks") plus, we fancy the brunette, Max, in a dirty sort of way. Posh totty Caroline unwittingly helps Max break up her with her chap.

"This is the prime suspect in the Fry homicide"

House

SKY1/HD • 10pm

Have you ever woken from a nightmare to find it was real? Maybe you dreamt you were watching a Glee marathon, woke with a start, then saw your girlfriend, then the TV, then the full horror of your plight. You'll sympathise with a kid in this, then, who dreams he's being choked before waking to find he can't take in air.

"You give me another Oscar, or she gets it!"

Bad Lieutenant

SKY MOVIES INDIE/HD • 10pm

Nicolas Cage does what he does best – he plays a lunatic in this grimy thriller about a drug-addicted corrupt cop. Post Hurricane Katrina, Cage is hunting the killers of a family of immigrants in New Orleans. Add in Eva Mendes' hooker girlfriend, hallucinations and prowling creditors, and you might need a post-viewing shower!

GRANDMA'S HOUSE

BBC TWO • 10pm

We like Simon Amstell, but we'd rather nail our nads to a post than endure this unfunny "comedy" written by the former Buzzcock.

LOCKOUT

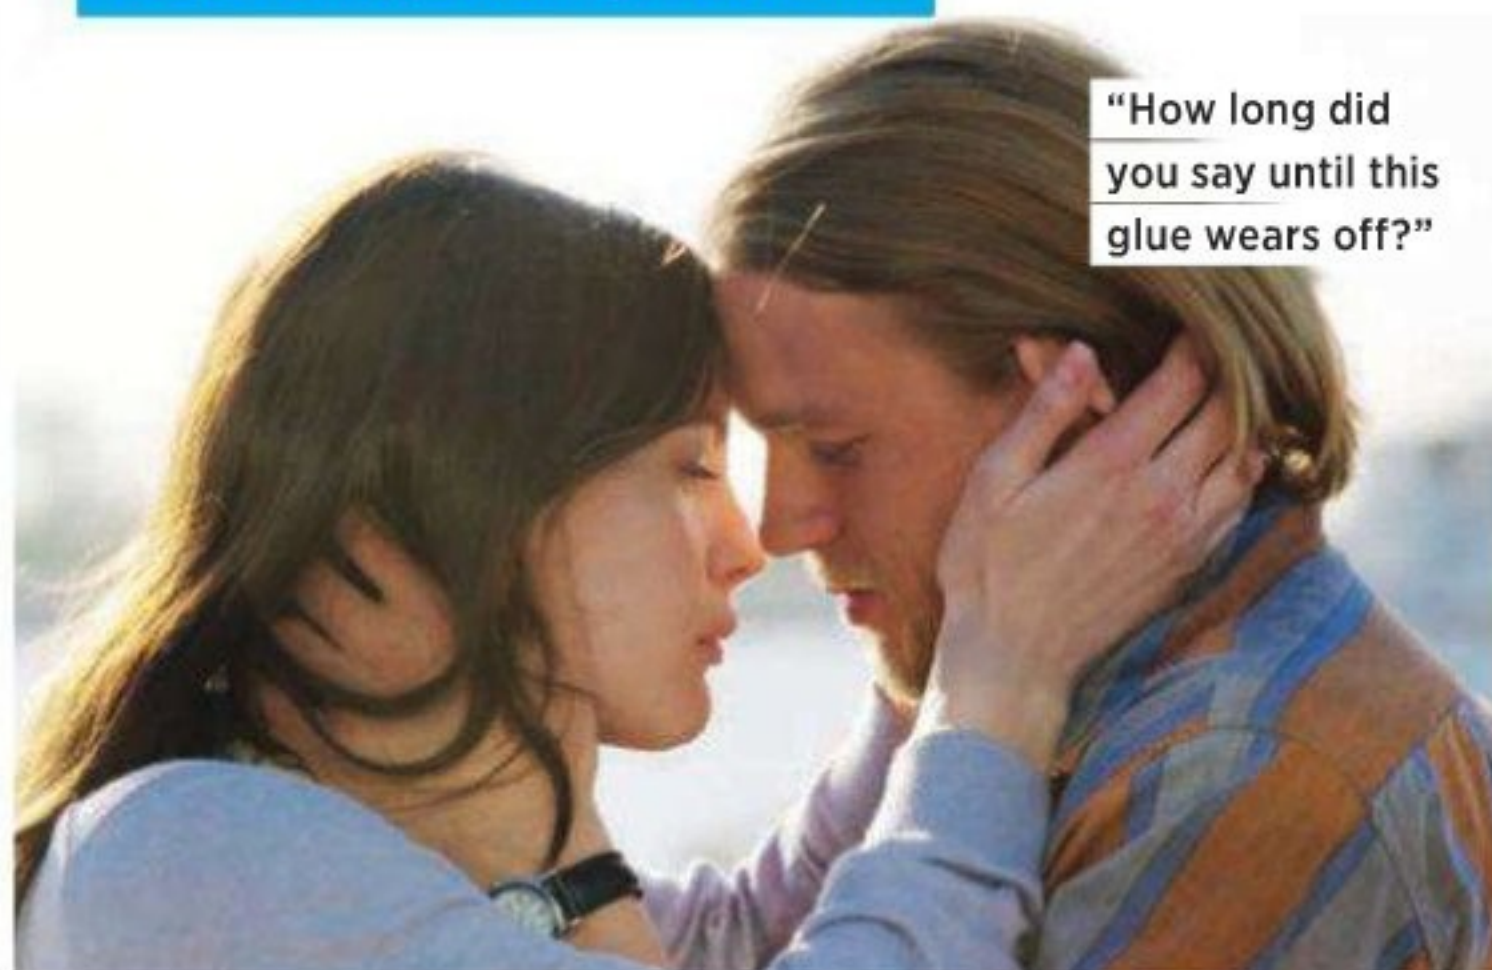

20 April • 15

Escape From New York meets Die Hard. In space! In 2079, CIA badass

Guy Pearce (Memento) is blackmailed into rescuing the US president's daughter from a space prison where 500 inmates have broken free from enforced sleep. Nifty CGI and a killer turn from This Is England's Joe Gilgun on baddie detail make for a cool sci-fi mash-up from Luc Besson, the producer of Taken. ★★★★★

Racy revelations from our female readers!

Ladies, got a saucy secret you can't keep to yourself? Send your sexy story to our Lou!

CONFESSION OF THE WEEK!

'We did it in a storage unit'

I RECENTLY moved and had to put some stuff in storage. None of my friends were around to help me but, thankfully, when I got to the storage place, a very kind – and fit – chap helped me move my TV. I was only wearing a tiny top and shorts and I could see it turned him on, so I let my boobs fall out of my top whenever I could. Before I knew it, we found ourselves in my lock-up, kissing and fondling. We closed the door behind us and had the most amazing sex ever. He's now my boyfriend and I can't wait until we move house again!

Nina London

'My sex with a stripper'

I CAN'T believe what I did last weekend! At a friend's hen do, I started flirting with one of the strippers in a club after he pulled me on stage for some fun with cream and bananas. I saucily asked him to meet me after the show. Sure enough, he came out to meet me and, no more than five minutes later, we were out in the car park. I'd never done anything like this before, but I felt so horny and just had to have him. He pulled my skirt up and ripped my thong to one side as he kissed and licked at my nipples, stripper-style. I got both hands round his manhood and used my tongue to lick the tip. He couldn't tear the condom packet open fast enough. He took me hard against the wall and I couldn't stop myself screaming with pleasure. When I told my friends about it later that night, none of them believed me!

Shanice South London

'I had him in the shed'

MY BOYFRIEND was working in our garden over Easter, digging up weeds and mowing the lawn. He was getting sweaty and as I watched him out of the window, I felt a familiar stir and my eyes wandered towards our shed. I took my knickers off and brought him a cup of tea then I flashed him the top of my leg and nodded towards the shed. He almost spat his tea out and followed me immediately.

I pushed him down on some paint tins, got on my knees and took him in my mouth. He was soon groaning with pleasure and begging me to climb aboard, so I straddled him, one leg on a box, the other wrapped round him. As we got more and more into it, we lost our balance and fell to the floor, but didn't stop, and we finished off our horny session on the floor.

Sarah Essex

'We made up with a bang'

AFTER TWO weeks apart, my ex and I decided to meet up as we wanted to work things out. After dinner and cocktails, he came back to mine. We were sitting on my bed, snogging and slowly taking off each other's clothes. He kissed my neck and my boobs, pausing to lick and kiss each nipple. His bulge was now really hard and he held onto it, rubbing the tip against my clit. I threw my head back, enjoying the feeling throughout my body. He pushed himself inside me and we leaned back, making a "V" with our naked bodies. I glanced in the mirror as we pushed against each other, and he reached out and pulled on each nipple, driving me crazy. We collapsed, hot and sweaty. It made me want to split up more often!

10 RUDE QUESTIONS!

And a real girl to answer them!

Ali

22 Cardiff

1 Where's the strangest place you've had sex?

"I once had sex on the bonnet of my car!"

2 What's your trademark move in the bedroom?

"I love starting off on top and taking it from there."

3 What really turns you on in bed?

"I like it when a guy dominates me in the bedroom."

4 What's your favourite position?

"Me underneath, the guy with one of my legs up on his shoulder, in a splits position!"

5 Is it better to give or to receive?

"I'm selfish, so I like to receive, but I have to return the favour!"

6 What one thing would you really like to try but haven't yet?

"I'd like to join the mile high club. I just haven't had the guts or opportunity to do it yet."

7 Have you ever got it on with another girl?

"I've kissed girls, for sure!"

8 What would be your kinky role-playing costume of choice?

"It would have to be my cops and robbers costume, because there are handcuffs and everything, and I really like to be taken control of in the bedroom!"

9 Have you ever made a sex tape?

"Yes, I have. It was such a turn-on. Everyone should give it a try at some point."

10 What's the single rudest thing you've ever done?

"I once had sex in the toilets of a nightclub. The place was totally packed out at the time!"

"I've had sex in the toilets of a packed nightclub!"

Meet the new face of Emerge!

Meet the Emerge Model Search competition winner!

→ PEOPLE THINK working at Nuts must be a breeze – endless hours surrounded by babes, playing video games and having a laugh. But sometimes things can get tough, like when Nuts teamed up with Emerge and its Juiced stimulation drink, to find Britain's Hottest Girl Next Door! There was no way we could look through every photo on our amazing online gallery alone, so we turned to the only people we could trust in a moment of crisis – you!

Babes from across the country uploaded their saucy snaps and our loyal readers did the rest, going to Nuts.co.uk/emerge to vote for their favourite girl! After hours of deliberation – and no doubt many repeat viewings – you settled on a winner, and here she is!

CHECK OUT THE WINNER'S ONLINE GALLERY AT NUTS.CO.UK/EMERGE AND GO TO WWW.FACEBOOK.COM/EMERGESTIMULATIONDRINK FOR MORE BEHIND-THE-SCENES PICS AND VIDEOS

Meet Carla Cressy!

Essex girl Carla, 20, is our winner! Look out for her throughout 2012 as the new face of Emerge!

Hi Carla! How does it feel to be officially Britain's Hottest Girl Next Door?
It's amazing! I'm truly thankful to everyone who voted for me.

What's it like to do your own sexy photo shoot?
It was glamorous and fun! It was wicked to be in the spotlight all day. Holly's lovely and made me feel confident. She taught me a thing or two and it was a real pleasure to work with her!

What do you think are your best assets?
Everyone usually says my eyes but personally I think my big bum!

How do you plan to celebrate your win?
A girls' night out with plenty of champagne! And if I'm lucky, my mum will whip up one her amazing roast dinners!

"Messi? About this tall!"

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE SPECIAL!

Terry: 'Bring on Barca!'

The Chelsea captain on the Champions League, AVB and stopping Lionel Messi!

Hi JT! How do you think you'll do against the mighty

Barca in the Champions League semi-final?

Barcelona are favourites, for sure. They're one of the best teams that's ever played. But we're not daunted. In fact, it's the reverse. We're a team of fighters and will relish the challenge.

As a defender, how on earth do you stop Lionel Messi?

Pray he has a bad day! Look, everyone knows this is a guy who has taken football to a different level. Everyone, no matter what team they support, appreciates how special a talent he is. Even my kids think he's amazing! His attitude is always spot on, too – it's all about the football with him, nothing else. Lionel Messi's a genius but we won't get caught up in all that. He's only one player so we'd be silly to focus just on him. Barcelona have threats all over the pitch.

So, can you win the tie?

Of course we can. We know no one fancies us and that's fine. We make a habit of proving people wrong.

Does getting to the Champions League semi-final stick it to the critics who say Chelsea are a club damaged by player power?

People always have plenty to say from the outside, people who don't know this dressing room. Yes, we have lots of experienced players and strong characters, but all top teams are the same – Chelsea are no different. The players don't run the club, no way.

What went wrong under AVB?

It's difficult to say. The results just didn't come, to be honest, and, unfortunately, he ended up leaving the club. I have a lot of time for him and I'm sorry about what happened. But that's football. We have to move on. Now, under Robbie [Di Matteo], we've shown what Chelsea is all about. The last two or three months, we've been much more like our old selves.

How has Roberto Di Matteo turned things around?

It's difficult to pinpoint why one manager gets results and another doesn't, but Robbie has been immense. He bleeds Chelsea – everyone here massively respects him. All I can say is that we're united in getting the best results for the club and the fans.

Does Roman Abramovich see the Champions League as the Holy Grail?

Roman has always wanted to win it, that's no secret. And the players are no different. We came so close four years ago – we still have the scars – so winning the Champions League is definitely on our to-do list.

After your penalty miss in that 2008 final, are you a man on a mission?

That was horrible and took some recovering from. You could see how much it hurt me. It'd be great to erase that memory by holding up the trophy, but no one's getting carried away. We've got a hell of a match against Barcelona ahead of us before we can think about anything else. I can't wait!

"Yes! We've drawn Chelsea!"

Messi: 'We can beat Chelsea!'

The world's greatest player on facing the Blues, Pep Guardiola and playing in England!

➔ Hi Lionel! Are you looking forward to going head-to-head with Chelsea?

This will be a good contest. The last game showed their spirit and quality. I guess they will have every motivation because of our previous meeting, but then all English teams have incredible spirit. I feel we have the players to win but it will not be easy.

Will it be Chelsea's power and drive versus Barca's free-flowing football?

I don't think it's good to put labels on teams. There are so many aspects to each that can't be categorised in a few words. But yes, we'll continue to play in the Barcelona style. We have freedom to enjoy the ball, this is the philosophy of our club.

Is it true that every single player is taught to play in the same expansive way?

As I say, this is a philosophy, not just a style. Everyone here – young or old – believes that football should be played a certain way. And it brings results. A lot of credit must always go to the manager.

Pep Guardiola has been linked with Chelsea this season. How sad would you be if he left?

It's unthinkable. For me, he's the best coach in the world, a symbol of Barcelona. Every day he has the mentality that we must understand what it means to play for this club. Our standards must always be high. The expectations must be met. We must win, but always in the right way. As a man, he's a leader without comparison.

With all you've achieved, how do you stop yourself getting big-headed?

For me, it's always been about the football. Not money, not fame, not celebrity, nothing like this. It may sound boring, but I've always been this way. My dedication to football was more important in my head than anything else. Today, I don't go out very often, so I'm not exposed to the cameras that much. This makes me very happy.

Could you see yourself playing in England one day?

To be honest, no, I can't. Barcelona is my home and my family. I like the Premier League, of course. My friend Kun Aguero has told me great things about English football. But I owe Barcelona everything. They have been loyal to me, so I will stay loyal to them. This is an easy arrangement because we win so many things!

KAMMY!

He's the voice of the fans – and he's only in Nuts!

"Keep Rooney
away from my hair!"

The FA really needs sorting, and quickly!

THE FOOTBALL Association need to take a long, hard look at themselves. Their actions over the past couple of weeks have been unbelievable!

Decisions over Shaun Derry's red card, Mario Balotelli's shocking challenge on Alex Song and Branislav Ivanovic's alleged punch at Wigan Athletic's Shaun Maloney are so inconsistent. The panel that make these judgements must be named and shamed. Where's the common sense?

The whole retrospective punishment procedure must be looked at, enough is enough. Players can't keep suffering at the hands of anonymous men in suits over at FA HQ!

Survival race too close to call!

Wolves may be doomed, but who else could join them?

➔ THINGS ARE really hotting up in the Premier League survival race. Wigan's amazing win over Man United and QPR's upturn in fortunes means that it's impossible to call when it comes to relegation.

Wolves look likely to be playing Championship football next season, but everyone else is fighting for their Premier League lives. Aston Villa fans must be looking nervously over their shoulders, that's for sure! Even Blackburn and Bolton keep picking up points here and there.

When it comes to this stage of the year, experience is everything, that's why Wigan are so good at getting out of trouble – they've been in this type of fight before and, in Dave Whelan, they have a superb chairman who doesn't panic. Just look at Wolves and their knee-jerk reaction in sacking Mick McCarthy – it's done them no favours.

"No, Alex – this

THE BIG MATCH!

"We believe we can touch the sky"

Barcelona vs Real Madrid

21 APR, 8PM • Sky Sp1/HD

It's the big one! The world will be watching on Saturday to see the two best sides in football go head-to-head. Barca have slowly been chipping away at Real's lead and if the Catalans can win this tantalising fixture, it'll blow the title race wide open. I'm backing Pep's boys!

KAMMY'S PREDICTION: 3-2

Key man

As usual, it'll be billed as Ronaldo vs Messi but, for me, the little Argentine is a genius and will be key if Barcelona are to beat their old rivals.

Miracle man Muamba!

BOLTON'S FABRICE

Muamba is to have a special defibrillator pacemaker fitted and could be back playing next season! It's truly a miracle that the midfielder could be back so soon, it really is. Fabrice is such a top bloke – he even sent a giant thank you cake to staff at the London Chest Hospital!

The thank you cake
Muamba sent to the

Chelsea's war chest!

I HEAR that Roman Abramovich is to back his new manager next season with a £250m transfer kitty. It's ridiculous that Chelsea are targeting players like Hulk and Edinson Cavani when they have a £50m striker in their squad. Sort Torres out and save some cash, Roman!

STEPHEN IRELAND

The loony Villa midfielder has gone for a pair of angel's wings, which are meant to represent spirituality, guardianship and moral values. Strange for a fella who wears Superman underpants and drives a pink-trimmed Land Rover!

BONKERS RATING 3/5

DJIBRIL CISSE

BONKERS RATING 3/5

Bonkers back tats rated!

The Premier League's most mental tattoos revealed!

WHEN CHELSEA snuck past Benfica in the Champions League, Portuguese playmaker Raul Meireles pulled off his shirt to reveal a bonkers back tattoo. It got us thinking – and rifling through photos of semi-naked footballers to see who rivals the midfielder for crazy tats!

RAUL MEIRELES

Initially opting for a black dragon tattoo, mental Meireles recently decided to colour in his serpent, which in Chinese culture symbolises power, strength and luck. Perhaps team-mate Torres should invest in one covering his entire body!

BONKERS RATING 4/5

DANIEL AGGER

Insane Agger's back is covered in a Viking graveyard tat, complete with mythological character Holger the Dane, who awakes if Denmark is ever in trouble. With the Danes in the group of death at Euro 2012, he's not likely to get much sleep!

BONKERS RATING 5/5

"I knew I shouldn't have drunk quite so much Red Bull"

"Are you sure these henna tats wash off?"

He never should have played "Truth or Dare" with a Triad
